VON BERNSTORFF TRIES TO EXPLAIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 13—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, made a desperate attempt today to clear up the new differences between the United States and Germany which are threatening to imperil, at least, diplomatic relations between the two countries. He came to Washington to see Secretary of State Lansing, prepared to explain from the German viewpoint the latest Arabic note.

The ambassador holds that the note is merely incidental to the submarine question, which has been the grave danger point at all times in the relationship between the two countries.

Count Von Bernstorff, it was learned on the highest authority, takes the position that his note to Secretary Lansing placed Germany on record as agreeing to protect neutral lives on passenger liners. He feels that Germany has gone as far as she legitimately can in the concession she already has made. The Arabic is an incident and one that can be settled through diplomatic channels, in the opinion of the German ambassador.

Just how successful the ambassador will be in the present negotiation, no official was willing to hazard a guess. High administration sources frankly admitted that they had found it impossible to reconcile the statements of the ambassador that full satisfaction would be accorded the United States if Germany was at fault with the positive assertion in the Arabic note that if the commander was to blame Germany still saw no reason why she should pay indemnity. They were inclined to believe that the ambassador had been "double crossed" by the authorities in Berlin. In order to thoroughly understand what action should be taken, Secretary Lansing held a conference with the president prior to receiving the ambassador.

As he left the White House after his conference, Secretary Lansing said that nothing had developed that he could give out. He said that so far as he knew Ambassador Von Bernstorff had not asked for an audience with the president. It had been reported that Count Von Bernstorff had expressed a desire to talk with the chief executive.

It is understood that Ambassador Von Bernstorff takes the position that the arbitration suggestion in the Arabic note simply means that Germany is willing that the Hague [illegible] should determine whether she should pay indemnity for the two American lives lost when the Arabic was sunk. In that connection would come, of course, the question of the intent of the submarine commander who sank the liner.

The German position, as learned from embassy sources, is that while Germany is making important concessions to safe-guard neutrals, England has taken no steps to aid the neutrals in safe-guarding their own rights.

The ambassador was to tell Secretary Lansing that if the British admiralty would make the announcement that the orders previously issued to ram and sink submarines did not affect liners then such liners would be respected by the submarines. But so long as those orders remain unchanged the German admiralty takes the position that its submarine commanders must unnecessarily jeopard their ships by approaching the liners for any purpose whatever or by observing rules of international law compelling stoppage, visitation and search.

It was admitted in official circles today that the situation now presented is serious but there was an inclination to hope that by the oral exchange between the ambassador and the secretary of state a clear line of action might be agreed upon which would remove the peril.

So far as the suggestion that the United States desires Captain Von Papen, the Germany military attache, recalled, because of his activity with the Austrian ambassador, Dr. Dumba, is concerned, Ambassador Von Bernstorff will send him home if Mr. Lansing just hints that such action will be acceptable. Von Papen is under the jurisdiction of the Berlin war office, and his recall could be very easily arranged as he has all along been trying to find a way to rejoin his regiment if he could get safely through the British lines. It was flatly stated at the German embassy today that if this government will secure a safe-conduct for Von Papen he will start for Berlin via Holland on the first steamer leaving New York.

Fire Near Mt. Marion.

A barn on the turnpike above Mt. Marion, owned by Richard Conlon, was destroyed by fire on Saturday morning between 7 and 8 o'clock. The origin of the fire is unknown. All the crops were destroyed but the horses and other stock were saved.

Crawford Farm Sold.

George A. Waldorf of Middletown has purchased the Thomas DuBois property at Crawford, Ulster county. There are about 135 acres of fine farm land besides a residence that has been conducted as a boarding house for a number of years.

Bicycle Stolen.

A. Dimendorf of 670 Broadway has reported to the police that a bicycle was stolen from his store at that address on Sunday evening. It was of Reading make. The police are investigating.

FIRE REPORTED ON FABRE LINER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 13.—The fate of the Fabre liner Sant' Anna reported afire in the Atlantic ocean on her way from New York to Naples, is still unknown. After devoting several hours today to efforts to get in communication with her commander, Captain Francois Pavy, agent of the Fabre Line, admitted their failure.

The Sant' Anna carried 1,939 persons, according to a summary issued by the Fabre Line agents at 10:15 a. m. Those on board the steamer were listed as follows: Passengers, 1,764: first cabin, 17; second cabin, 44; steerage, 1,703. Crew, 175.

The following message was sent to the offices of the Fabre Line in Marseilles by James E. Elwell and Company, the agents in New York:

"Newspaper reports Sant' Anna afire in latitude 40.23, longitude 47.30. Have no information of this from the captain. Hope this is baseless."

The 1,703 steerage passengers were most Italian reservists who came from many cities of the United States and Canada. Those from the eastern section were booked from New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Springfield Mass., New Haven Conn., Baltimore, Philadelphia, Toronto and Montreal. Others came from the western cities of Butte, Seattle, Los Angeles, Cleveland, St. Louis and San Francisco. Some were booked at New Orleans and Galveston.

Mrs. Allen Wallace of New York, who was listed as a first cabin passenger on the books of the line agent here, was not aboard the Sant' Anna. She had cancelled her passage just before the liner sailed.

As the hours passed without any direct message from Captain Pavy, hope grew at the offices of Elwell and Company that an error might have been made in reporting the Sant' Anna as the ship on fire. David H. F. Jones, a member of the firm, said:

"We think that the fire is on the freighter Joseph W. Fordney, bound for Boston from Halifax. We would have heard direct from the commander of the Sant' Anna if a fire had threatened the ship, because of the number of passengers on board.

"The Joseph W. Fordney was on fire several days ago and this fire may have broken out agin. There may have been a confusion in names to cause the Sant' Anna report."

Though the Fabre Line agents had asserted that the cargo of the Sant' Anna was chiefly foodstuffs, the ship's manifest showed that she [illegible] seed oil, 88 freight cars, 42 casks of copper wire, 409 pieces of black pipe, 13 cases of cyanide of soda, 10 cases of potash salts, 18 boxes of machinery, 900 cases of brass rolls and 1,000 bags of paraffin.

The following are the officers of the Sant' Anna:

Francois Pavy, captain; Emile Maheu, second officer; Emmanuel Camal, first lieutenant; Lolis Hery second lieutenant; Dr. Louis Rasselier, surgeon; Dr. Luigi Parascandalo and Dr. Bartolini, assistant surgeons; Roger de Vallois, chief purser; Jehan Roussett, assistant purser; Leon Menard, chief engineer; Barthelemy Vaschetto, second engineer; Auguste Amphaux, third engineer; Louis Figau, fourth engineer; Fernand Julien, chief wireless operator; Bonini Grimaldi, assistant wireless operator.

TO RETAIN BRONZE VALVES.

Report That They Will Be Taken From Aqueduct Denied.

A report published Sunday morning to the effect that the plan to use huge bronze valves in the new Catskill aqueduct had turned to be a fiasco, and that the valves which have been built in the great water tunnel must be replaced at a loss of about $750,000, was emphatically denied Sunday night by John F. Galvin of the board of water supply. The report was based on the fact that a high water pressure test had been made in one of the sections of the city tunnel, between Ninety-seventh and Twenty-third streets, Manhattan, and the uptown valve had leaked.

"The rest of the valves, of course, will be tested as soon as possible," Mr. Galvin said last night; "but the idea of a great loss to the city is ridiculous. We shall hold the contractors responsible wherever the bronze is found to be faulty, and whatever extra cost falls on the city through the necessity of replacing some of the minor parts will be comparatively small. We are using the bronze instead of steel so that it can last for centuries, as it does not rust. While bronze probably has not been used for just this purpose before, it is used successfully in the Panama canal construction, and in many other great projects is proving practical for use where high pressure is to be met.

"We have found, however, that it will not serve for bolts, and our bronze bolts are to be replaced with steel, which we shall try to prepare specially against rust. The present expectation, however, is to retain the bronze valves, and the fact that some flaws have been found will not delay the delivery of water as much as one month."—New York Times.

BAR TO EXPLAIN NEW CONSTITUTION

Judge Clearwater, delegate at large, and president of the State Bar Association, stated today that he would appoint a committee of the bar in each of the sixty counties of the state to explain to the voters and to urge upon them the adoption of the amendments to the constitution. In expressing his approval of the work of the convention he said that the adoption of the budget would result in economies of which the people of the state long accustomed to careless methods and lavish expenditures had but little conception; that the short ballot with its re-organization of the various state departments would inaugurate a reform long needed. A state, said he, may flourish under an autocracy. Venice prospered nearly a thousand years under an oligarchy, but no state can fully develop under a bureaucracy. It was really a bureaucracy which caused the fall of the second French Empire. Russia, although an autocracy in name, actually is a gigantic aristocratic bureaucracy, and the state of New York with its numerous departments, divisions, subdivisions and 116,000 bureaucratic employes was fast becoming strangled. On pay day Albany swarmed with men who rendered no adequate service for the money they drew from the state treasury. The bureaucrat, like the mite in the cheese, thinks the state is made for him. He regarded the mandate to the legislature to adopt a short practice act as one of the most important reforms provided for by the new constitution. "Of course" said he "it will meet with the opposition of those lawyers who are so wedded to and familiar with the old and involved practice that they are unwilling to adjust themselves to new and better methods. We are so entangled in a web of our own wearing that some of us fancy the success of the profession depends upon maintaining it unbroken. Lawyers of the first rank in the several counties of the state, however, long have urged the adoption of such an act, and time and again the legislature has been pressed to adopt one; always the inertia of the bar and the indifference of the bench have prevented it." He heartily endorsed the home rule provision, and would have approved even a more liberal measure, but thought the moderate one adopted was perhaps wiser. The judge said that nothing could be finer than the attitude of the leading Democrats in the convention, notably that of Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, DeLancy Nicoll, John B. Stanchfield, who declined to permit partisan feeling to influence their conduct, and studiously abstained from attacking the motives of the men responsible for the work of the convention, nor did they indulge in oratorical effort for political effect. "Taking the convention as a whole" said the judge "it was a gathering of remarkable men, all of whom were animated by the desire to give the people of the state the best constition their ripened judgment and mature consideration and experience could frame, and while, as was inevitable, there were compromises, the amendments must commend themselves to every broadminded, reflective citizen as an advance upon the present organic law."

Of Senator Root, Judge Clearwater said if he was dominant in the councils of the convention he was naturally and properly ascendant: his knowledge of governments, his experience in public affairs, his unselfishness and absolute sincerity were unquestioned, and with all he was tolerant and generous, a great leader in a great movement for the better government of a great state.

To Sail for China.

David A. Scott, of the Brooklyn, of the United States navy, and Mrs. Scott were unexpected visitors in Kingston, Mr. Scott's old home, on Saturday evening and part of Sunday, being the guests of Mr. Scott's brother, James W. Scott, at his home on Green street. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Scott left for Philadelphia, where the Brooklyn is stationed. Possibly the Brooklyn will remain in this vicinity for a short time, to be engaged in war maneuvers, but it will be but a comparatively brief period before it will leave for China. Mr. Scott does not expect to return for three years, and in the meantime Mrs. Scott will make her home in Shanghai, China.

War Prayer.

O Lord, help us to tear the soldiers of the foe to bloody shreds with our shells, help us to cover their smiling fields wit' the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire;; help us to wring the hearts of their offending widows with unavailing grief. Blast their hopes, blight their lives, water their way with their tears.—Mark Twain.

Statue of Liberty.

"Miss Liberty" is 110 feet tall from the heel to the top of the head. From the base to the top of the torch the height is 152 feet. The statue is constructed of copper sheets about one-tenth of an inch in thickness. The total weight of 440,000 pounds, and the cost was a million francs, or $200,000.

Mrs. Vanderbeck holds the eastern championship and Miss Hyde is metropolitan champion.

TOWN EXHIBITS OF SCHOOL GARDENS

At a recent meeting of the district superintendents of the schools of Ulster county held in the office of the Ulster County Farm Bureau on John streets the dates and places for holding the agricultural exhibits of the farm products raised by the school children were decided upon. Last spring contests were arranged in practically all the townships in Ulster county and each township selected one particular vegetable for the contestants to grow. It was also decided to award a first prize of $5 for the best work done in a township, a second prize of $3 and a third prize of $2. These prizes have been donated by the granges in the various townships and by public spirited men in the townships where there were no granges.

The name of the township, the place of the exhibition, the name of the vegetable grown by the township and the date of the exhibition are given below:

Bubonic Plague in New Orleans.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Confirmation of reports that a case of true bubonic plague had been discovered at New Orleans was received today by the United States public health service. Orders were sent at once to the service experts there to take every precaution to prevent its spread. Health service officials here do not fear any epidemic will result at New Orleans, as well trained men of the service are on the ground to check the malady.

Rondout Presbyterian Church Notes.

Communion service was held on Sunday morning in the church and the pastor, the Rev. Dr. C. G. Ellis, preached a powerful sermon, taking as his topic "The Preventions of God." Among those who joined the church by letter were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Powley and Miss Fannie C. Miller.

The subject for the Thursday evening service will be "A Vacation Sabbath."

Mrs. Charles M. Preston has invited the Woman's Missionary Society to a social meeting at her home on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Woman's Missionary Society has adopted for their subject for study this year the American Indians.

The ladies of Circle No. 1, Mrs. Charles G. Ellis, chairman, will meet at the manse on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to finish their rugs and to arrange for a rug sale.

Sunday, September 26, will be rally day at the church when it is desired that each member who can possibly do so be present and also that all subscriptions due for church support may be paid.

The Whatsoever Band will meet Friday afternoon in the chapel. At the last meeting the following officers were elected: President, Elizabeth Kingman; first vice-president, Greta Linkletter; second vice-president, Sarah LeFevre; secretary, Elizabeth Brown; treasurer, Anna Rodie.

ITALIAN SOCIETIES VISIT KINGSTON

Italians from Albany, Ravena, Port Ewen, East Kingston and Kingston Point turned out on Sunday to attend the special services held here in honor of the Feast of the Nativity. Headed by a band from Albany the societies marched from the hotel of John Sottile at Bath Beach to St. Mary's Church to attend divine services at 11 o'clock. An Italian priest from New York was celebrant of the mass with the local clergy assisting. After the services at the church the parade again formed and marched up Broadway headed by a platoon of police as far as Downs street and then returned to the hotel where dinner was served. A number of members of Italians societies in this section marched with the visitors. At Mr. Sottile's Hotel at the point a dinner was served the visitors. Altogether there were about 300 visiting members of the societies in town and their welfare were carefully looked after by the Italian residents of the city.

SHOWER BATHS IN JAIL.

Why Not Hire The Stuyvesant, Asks Old Subscriber.

Sept. 13, 1915.

Dear Editor:—

I read with much interest in Saturday's issue of The Freeman the inspection made of the county jail and the city lockup and after perusing the suggestions made by the inspector I would respectfully suggest that it would be cheaper for the board of supervisors of the county in the long run to purchase the Stuyvesant Hotel for use as the county jail or to erect a building similar to it. If all the suggestions that have been made in the past were to be carried out the county jail instead of being just plain jail would assume the functions of a large city hotel with all the conveniences thereto.

The funniest suggestion I ever read was that made by the last inspector who suggests shower baths for the county jail. As a matter of fact the inmates of the county jail when they are first brought to the county jail never saw a shower bath in their life and would not know how to use one if they did. The great majority of the prisoners when they first reach the jail look as though they had never had a bath since a child, and then wanting to give each one a shower bath! Might just as well hire some one to act as valet for them and be done with it.

It will soon be only a matter of time when it will be only possible to become an inmate in the county jail by securing a special permit from those in authority, that is if ever the many numerous suggestions suggested by the inspectors are carried out for the majority of the population who inhabit our jails will find that it is much more comfortable than their homes and with numberless more conveniences.

To the lay mind the idea of building a jail was to erect a building for the confinement of those who break the laws of society and a jail was not thought to be a place to install all the refinements of a home. On the contrary I always thought that a jail was to be such that those confined in it would think twice after their release from it before breaking the laws again.

By this I don't mean to say that a jail should not be kept clean or that the prisoners should not be given plain wholesome food but as far as installing shower baths and other luxuries the county might just as well lease some hotel and be done with it, as those who are sent to the jail would much rather remain in it after they tasted the joys of shower baths and so forth than return to their own homes which in the majority of cases are over-run with vermin and filth.

I have seen the lockup at the city hall and I have also been through the county jail and to be perfectly honest both are far superior to many homes that I have seen throughout the city and the county.

It makes me tired to read these reports on the condition of the jail and the city lockup. Both are plenty good enough for the class that are confined in them.

Trusting this will not take up too much space, I remain

In Recorder's Court.

William Hotaling was arrested on Saturday night by Policeman Boyd on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was sent to jail and will be arraigned on Tuesday morning.

Andrew Comback, colored, was arrested by Policeman Kuehn for shooting crap on Sunday. He pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned until Tuesday morning.

Levi Port was arrested on St. James street for blowing out a signal light on that street. When arraigned this morning before the recorder he was discharged with a reprimand.

To Identify Stolen Car.

The police have been notified that Detective Sergeant Lyons of Jersey City and the supposed owner of a car which was abandoned in Ponckhockie a few nights ago will come to this city to see if they can identify the car. The machine was taken early in the week and broke down in Ponckhockie. Two men who were in it abandoned the car and have not been seen since. The mechanism failed to work, which was the reason the car was left standing for some time on East Strand.

ZEPPELINS AGAIN RAID ENGLAND

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 13.—Zeppelin airships made another raid on England last night. The German squadron dropped bombs on the east coast, but an official statement issued by the press bureau shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon stated that no casualties had resulted.

This was the second raid in 24 hours, another having made on Saturday night.

Increased recruiting, due to the recent Zeppelin raids on England, has added more than fifty thousand soldiers to the British army. It is probably that within a week as many more will be enrolled.

Because of reports that Count Zeppelin had in person directed the raid of Saturday night on the east coast, details of that attack were eagerly awaited today. Up to noon, however, no further information had come from official quarers as to the actual happenings.

It is expected that the government will be called upon in parliament to give more information as to what actually occurred in the various raids. Some members of parliament believe that certain facts can be given without betraying any military secrets.

The British censor passed a Berlin dispatch stating that the London docks and their environs were bombarded Saturday night without either affirmation or denial.

ARBITRATE ARABIC DEATH LIABILITY

Secretary of State and German Ambassador in Perfect Agreement as to Procedure to be Followed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The United States is willing to arbitrate the question of Germany's liability for the deaths of the two Americans who lost their lives in the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic. Secretary of State Lansing explained to Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, at a 35 minute conference today that he saw no real objection to such a course. It is understood that the secretary and the German ambassador were in perfect agreement on the interpretation of the Arabic note. And Count von Bernstorff again personally assured the United States that Germany has accepted the principles involving her submarine warfare as outlined by President Wilson in the Lusitania exchanges.

Today's conference went again into the question of the form in which the United States desires assurances concerning the orders under which her submarine commanders are operating. The German ambassador, it is understood, told the secretary that his government is ready at the present time to renew the correspondence and answer the last Lusitania note.

Secretary Lansing, however, was not ready for this action as it has not yet been determined just what this government wants to do to entirely close the Arabic case and it must be finished before other negotiations can proceed. Count von Bernstorff was in high good humor on leaving the department, and posed for the moving picture operators on the state department steps. He was told that a report had been circulated that a deadlock had arrived in the negotiations with the United States.

"There will be no deadlock so long as I'm alive," he said with distinct emphasis. Asked whether he would see the president the ambassador said he had not made any request to meet the chief executive, but that he would hold himself at the disposal of Secretary Lansing and his chief at all times. He declined to say when he expected to see Mr. Lansing again, but intimated that it would be very soon.

RAYMOND LECTURES.

All Business Men Should be Sure to Hear Them.

On Tuesday evening of this week and a week from Thursday a lecture will be given in the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The speaker will be Frank Jewell Raymond, industrial manager of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Tickets for the two lectures in the course will be fifty cents and will be sold at the following stores: S. E. Eighmey, Canfield Supply Company, Stock & Cordts, Y. M. C. A., M. C. Crosby, Gregory & Company, Burgevin's Sons, Forsyth & Davis, L. B. Van Wagenen Company, S. Cohen's Sons and the Carl Dry Goods Company.

It is the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce to give prizes for the best essay or suggestions which may be offered by the young business men and women after hearing the lectures of Mr. Raymond. Both men and women are invited to attend the lectures and gain some valuable pointers which are sure to fall from the speaker's lips. Mr. Raymond has lectured before all the important commercial organizations in the country and without exception has been given a hearty welcome and asked to repeat his course of lectures. Women as well as men will be welcome to attend the lectures and doubtless all will be able to glean much useful information as to salesmanship, etc., from hearing such an expert.

RONDOUT 80 YEARS AGO.

When Stages Ran to Delaware County From the Mansion House.

The following reminiscences from the pen of the late M. W. McEntee appeared in The Freeman about 30 or 35 years ago:

About 50 years ago there stood a short distance up what is now Union avenue, in Lower Rondout, the hotel of James Diamond. In his barn were stalls for 50 horses. In front of the hotel could be seen large wagons drawn by four horses, loaded with "raw hides" and stores for the many tanneries along the Esopus Creek and in Delaware and Greene counties; and also with butter, leather and other products of the back regions in transit to New York City. In the early morning hours there was much bustle and busy preparations for departure by farmers and teamsters who were always ready to crack a joke with "Big Dan" or "Tom" Mulholland, who managed affairs at the barn and who could call by name almost every teamster "on the road."

Further down town, on "The Strand," stood the old cosy Dutch-built Mansion House, which preceded the present building, and which was kept by the late James S. McEntee. The Mansion House was a starting point for stages running to Delaware County and other points. Before the Delhi stage would start in the early morning a bow-legged individual, somewhat shorter and less corpulent than the well known "Romeo," of Rhinecliff, would solemly mount the steps of the hotel, run his fingers around the edges of his 20-inch collar, doff his broad-brimmed hat and in a voice that could be heard distinctly for about a quarter of a mile, exclaim: "Hear me, hear me, ladies and gents. The great United States Mail stage for Delhi will start in 30 minutes. Get ready! Be ready. Stay ready!" One hour later he would announce the departure of the Ellenville stage, saying it was run on the only through route to Sullivan County and the coal fields of Pennsylvania. He would then descend the steps, ensconce himself in an armchair, fill his long clay pipe, and discuss the features of the anti-rent war, then in progress in Delaware County.

At the foot of what is now Canal street could be seen hundreds of emigrants from Ireland, Wales, etc., engaging transportation to Pennsylvania on canal boats.

Opposite the Mansion House was the news store of the late Archibald Winter, father of William Winter. The proprietor owned a strange-looking, stump-tailed dog, which he utilized as a dog express to carry papers from the steamboats which landed at Kingston Point. The dog wore a collar inscribed: "I am A. Winter's dog, of Rondout. Whose dog are you?"

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1110—A Pretty Frock for Mother's Girls Over Blouse Dress With Guimpe Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

Plaid woolen in soft brown tones combined with tan cashmere is here portrayed. The design would develop well in other combinations. Blue serge with white ratine or linen for the guimpe, or velvet, silk, cloth, galatea, gingham or percale. All these make serviceable and neat dresses. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires 2⅞ yards of 40 inch material with 1⅛ yards for the guimpe for an 8 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date 1915-16 large Fall and Winter Catalogue, containing over 400 designs of Ladies' Misses' and Children's Patterns, as well as the latest Embroidery Designs, also a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, giving valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, Sept. 13.—Labor Day passed off very pleasantly with quite a good crowd. About $2.75 was the amount received.

Mr. and Mrs. Weeks were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Longendyke over Labor Day.

It begins to make one think that summer has just begun, as the weather during September has been very warm.

Miss During and her friend, Mrs. Finkledye, who were injured in a run-away accident recently, are somewhat improved, although Mrs. Finkledye still suffers a great deal of pain from her shoulder.

Cyrus Longendyke is ill.

A number of former residents were in this place on Labor Day, as usual, enjoying themselves.

The Rev. Mr. Barnum of Albany is expected to preach on September 12.

Charles Greene and wife and Watson Fredenburg and wife motored to Albany on Wednesday of last week.

Miss Ruby Brown of Kingston was the guest of her cousin, Mary, over Labor Day.

School was reopened on Wednesday last, with Miss Knight as teacher.

Message No. 6

A young doctor, making a start in a small town, decided that to be prosperous he must look prosperous. He bought a new buggy and two good horses. Although he had only a few patients he always kept on the jump, attending to his patients' smallest needs. People began to notice this young doctor driving about town and they called him because he looked busy and prosperous. He got his start—a start that led to a comfortable practice.

A town, like this doctor, must look prosperous to be prosperous.

Clean streets, attractive store windows, well-painted buildings and dwellings give the prosperous air. Well-painted buildings are greatest of these.

Dutch Boy Atlantic White Lead

and Dutch Boy linseed oil make a most durable and protective paint that keeps buildings well painted. These materials can be mixed to suit conditions and tinted any color desired. Sold by all good dealers. Better get in touch with your dealer in the interests of prosperity.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Sept. 13.—The stock market opened active and strong this morning. Room traders were active, buyers, but the supply was scant. Bethlehem Steel on two transactions of 100 shares each rose 14 points to 326, followed by a reaction to 323. Crucible Steel opened 3¾ points higher at 89, and then receded to 88. General Motors made an initial gain of 5½ points to 261. New York Air Brake rose 3 points to 146 and Studebaker 2 points to 117 There were orderly advances in the standard issues, steel common rising a point to 75⅛. Substantial advances were made in American Can, Erie, Anaconda and Baltimore and Ohio Third Avenue moved up ½ to 38¼, a new high record Rock Island rose a point to 21¼

Outside buying was small with no special selling pressure. The few important movements which occurred were due almost wholly to buying by friendly interests. Bethlehem rose to 328, followed by a reaction to 324, while Crucible Steel, after selling down to 87½, rallied to 88. Steel common declined ¾ to 74⅝, and then rallied to 74¾. There was evidence of accumulation of Third Avenue, which sold at 38¾, a gain of a point and a new high. There was some foreign selling of Union Pacific, which dropped ⅝ to 128⅞, followed by a slight recovery. Reading and Rock Island were both in good demand, the former advancing ½ to 149½. Money loaning at 1¾ per cent

In the first half of the last hour nearly all stocks ruled above their mid-day level Fluctuations were small, however, and for the most part were confined to fractions The tone was steady

The market closed irregular, governments unchanged; other bonds steady except Rock Island.

Artificial Coffee.

A young Japanese in Hyogo is reported to have invented artificial coffee almost equal in every respect to natural Brazilian coffee. As the result of chemical analysis by experts it is said that the goods now manufactured by the young inventor are more wholesome than the natural bean, while retaining all its flavor and quality.

Nails Made by Hand.

It seems hardly credible that it was almost to the close of the eighteenth century that most nails were made by hand. Other countries were very slow to follow the lead of England in getting out nails in large quantities. In France for nearly a century light nails for carpenter work were made from wire, but until 1850 they were made by hand with a hammer

WINDING THE CLOCK.

Follow This System and You May Get More Accurate Time.

You cannot secure the best services from a good watch or clock unless you know how to wind them so as to cause the least wear and irregularity in their delicate machinery.

A watch should be wound at the same time every day If allowed to run down or even almost do so and then wound up until it will not wind any further it cannot do as perfect work as a watch that is not allowed to run to its full capacity or wound up until it is as tight as it can be made.

If a watch is wound both morning and evening at about the same hour and the key is given only enough turns to wind it a little less than half what it could be wound the watch will run more evenly, wear much longer and keep more accurate time than if it is wound up tight once a day.

A watch spring will last longer if it is wound when there is the least extreme of temperature, and morning and evening are, of course, the best in that respect.

It is more or less dangerous to wind a watch during a heavy electric storm, and it is best to avoid winding while on an electric car.

An eight day clock should be wound twice a week at as regular periods as possible to secure the best results Never allow the clock to run down, and if possible do not wind it until it is tight.

Learn by experience just how many turns of the key it takes to wind the clock to run eight days and then when half of the week is gone wind the clock by giving the key just half as many turns as it would require to wind it all the way. More accurate time will be had and it will avoid placing any of the parts in a strain, which is frequently the cause of good clocks giving out in some particular before they have served half as long as they should.

A little attention to this advice will lengthen the life of any watch or clock and make it a better timepiece.—New York American.

LITTLE MILLIONAIRES HAVE NAME CHANGED.

(Leonard Moorhead Thomas, Jr., and his mother, Mrs. Leonard Thomas.)

New York, Sept. 9.—On September 15, on an order from Justice Giegerich of the Supreme Court, Leonard May Oelrichs Thomas and Meredith Michael Thomas, the two little sons of Leonard M Thomas, millionaire of New York, Newport and Philadelphia, and Mrs Blanche May Oelrichs Thomas will have their names changed

On that date Leonard May Oelrichs Thomas will become Leonard Moorehead Thomas while Meredith Michael May Thomas will hereafter be known as Robin May Thomas

In his petition for the change in names of his sons Mr Thomas stated that he wanted his eldest son to bear the name Moorehead in honor of his wife's paternal grandmother When Leonard was born in 1911, he was the first child of the couple who were married in 1910 and he wanted to have the boy bear the name of his wife's mother. On April 26 last a second son was born and as he was also given the name "May" there is no reason why Leonard should now bear it He further stated that the name borne by his sons were too cumbersome and he wished them shortened.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 13, 1915.

Those poor dear criminals who commit offences in Ulster County are not being treated as well as they deserve, according to inspectors of the State Commission of Prisons. It seems that in the county jail there are only two shower baths. Some of us might think that enough for an institution in which there are never more than fifty inmates, who have nothing to take up their time except eating and bathing, but not so the up-to-date penologists who have a vague idea that it somehow sanctifies a man to be arrested and thrown into jail for cause. A good many of our law-abiding, hard working citizens have no baths at all in their homes, being compelled to use the tub which is even at this advanced day considered good enough for the English nobility. Of course, this is their own fault, since it is easy enough to get arrested. In the city jail the "improvements made are commendable, but the jail is still far from modern," which is simply dreadful. What is the use of breaking the laws if you are not going to be put in a place with all the luxuries known to science? The worst of it is that we shall never be able to bring our jails up to the front of the procession, because it moves too fast for us. No matter how prompt we are, it will always be impossible for the men who pay taxes to keep up with the thoughts of the philanthropists who think over time to study up new ways of spending money.

There is occasion for gratification over the personnel of the Naval Advisory Board of Inventions. Secretary Daniels selected Thomas A. Edison as its head, because he is the one man for the place. Then, with a sagacity foreign to his usual procedure, he called upon the eleven great engineering and scientific societies in the country to nominate two members each, which they did after careful deliberation. With the exception of Hudson Maxim, Peter Cooper Hewitt and Howard E. Coffin, these twenty-two men have never been much advertised, but the societies who selected them are sure that they are just the men for the place. Americans have always led the way in invention, and it is comforting to know that our foremost men in that line are available and authorized to make plans in case we have to defend ourselves against would-be invaders. Incidentally, it may be noted that Henry Ford, who was first mentioned along with Edison, has not been appointed, while two other men interested in automobile designing are on the board. Maybe that is why Henry is going to give a million dollars for the advocacy of peace. Some folks get real mad like that.

It will be good news to thousands of American parents and their children to learn that an entire shipload of Christmas toys from Germany was brought into the port of New York on Friday by the Holland-American steamer Veenbergen from Rotterdam, and the State Department has been informed by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, of the progress of negotiations looking toward the release of similar cargoes of German-made Christmas goods which have been held up in Dutch ports. Germany takes precedence over all other nations in the manufacture of toys and trinkets, principally for the reason that wages in Germany are small and there is an immense population which would otherwise be idle if it were not for the manufacture of toys. Last year there were no Christmas toys landed in the United States from Germany and American toy makers were unable to supply the demand. In the midst of the grim horrors of war, emotional people will see a ray of hope in this apparent effort to provide Christmas joy for innocent children, but practical folk will see in the action of raising the embargo only a desire on the part of Great Britain and her Allies to adjust international commerce which does not conflict with trade in war material by which Germany would be benefited. It is a striking commentary on conditions brought about by war that the erstwhile makers of toys intended to gladden the childish hearts of young Americans should now be engaged in deadly combat by which the homes and lives of thousands of English, French and Russian children will be forever saddened.

It is just a little tiresome to read the constant urging of Democratic newspapers to "stand by the President." How can we do that without knowing what his policies are? Is he going to do anything to revive drooping business? What plans has he to arrest the United States treasury in its rapid movement toward bankruptcy? What about his foreign policies? He has changed his attitude toward Mexico, and at any moment he may alter his stand on German submarine warfare. Nobody seems to have any clear idea what his dangerous Federal Trade Commission is going to do to us. It is pretty hard to stand by a man unless you know the spot he stands on. Anything may be expected of a man who asserted that the Mexicans had a right to murder each other without interference but who refused the Haytians the same inestimable privilege.

HER DREAM.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

There were conflicting interests in the family; wills were often a-clash, money was distressingly close and things were seldom pleasantly serene. And when a matrimonal door opened to one of the daughters she was happy to escape, because she saw looming in the free future a home of her own where she might do exactly as she pleased, with no one to question or to interfere with her plans from morning till night.

So she married.

And then came her awakening. For she learned soon enough on the untried way that the home of her dreams was nothing but a flimsy structure of cards, which quickly came tumbling about her.

Her way was not the only way, not even a legitimate half, and she could no more do as she pleased than in the days under her father's roof; and in her rebellion she opened her heart to an aunt well taught by the lessons of life.

Her disappointment was so supreme and so evident that it would have been funny had its consequences been less serious; and while the aunt felt an impulse to smile, the other half was serious enough. And from the heights of her ripened experience she read a few pages from her own book of life.

She told her that in all this wide world there never yet had been a happy home built upon someone's ambition to have her own way. Yes, there were plenty where that singular notion prevailed, but if she would look long enough she would learn that they did not belong to the happy variety.

Many the persons before her who had fondly believed that once they walked into homes of their own, domestic sailing would be perfectly smooth; but they found that in marriage, as in every relationship in life, they must go on yielding the same as of old.

Then she asked her to think for a moment how life really would run for the rest in the home if she had been able to carry out her dream. For her likes and notions often were at variance with the likes and notions of the rest, and if her ways prevailed all the time, what would happen to them? She must never forget that though some personalities were able to impress themselves and their ways upon the folk around them, by reason or something or other, the effect might be quite the reverse from pleasant.

And—the suggestion was made very mildly—didn't she think it would be well to give up the notion of ever finding a home where she might do exactly as she pleased? For if she found it she might rest assured that something more vital certainly would be missing.

And isn't she right

And wouldn't it be well for more of us to heed her brief little talk?

Because, in many homes, in many lands, are protesting men and women who think that if they only might slip away to some happy place where dispositions were different, demands fewer and conditions altogether changed, they would be the most grateful folk alive. And it may very well be that the trouble is largely with them and that they would find the same difficulties wherever they went until they learned how to take a few unwelcome somethings for granted.

And what a world this would be if all of us were as yielding, as patient and as understanding as we think others should be!

Then—but then there would be no more fighting, at home or abroad.

ITALIAN RESERVISTS ON SANTA ANNA.

GOING BACK TO FIGHT FOR NATIVE COUNTRY.

On the after deck of the Italian liner Santa Anna, leaving New York with more than 300 Italian reservists bound for the mother country to engage in the war. As the ship moved off from her pier, the reservists crowded the decks, singing patriotic songs and waving Italian flags.

Submarines.

It is almost impossible to fix the precise date of the origin of the idea of the submarine boat. It is hundreds of years old, to say the least. The practical submarine is, of course, quite modern, dating back not more than fifteen or twenty years.

To Get Rid of Rats.

A good way to get rid of rats is to collect some thin chips, pieces of shingles, or tin, and pour over them enough molasses to cover them. Sprinkle dry lye over the chips and place them in every rat hole you can find. The rats will soon move out.

Delicate Possibility.

"Are you in favor of government ownership?" "Sometimes I am," replied the cautious citizen, "although I'd hate to be in a position where I could express my opinion of the way a railroad was run, without seeming disrespectful to my country."

Cheap Paint

There are 1,000 "cheap" paints and a dozen really cheap ones. That double word "cheap" is the cause of wasting more money than good paint costs, two or three times over.

Cheap paint is good paint; there is no other; no other is cheap. The two words sound alike but their meanings are opposite. "Cheap" costs double. Cheap is dear.

Old Age.

"Old age," said John Burroughs, the great naturalist, "is not so much a bugaboo after all. He is, in many ways, better to live with than youth, because he leaves you more at your ease; you are in the calmer waters; the fret and fever of life have greatly abated. Old age brings the philosophical mind; he brings a deeper, wider outlook upon life; he brings more tolerance and charity and good will. I did not squander my youth in excesses, and hence I am not bankrupt in my old age."

For the Teeth.

To prevent tartar forming on the teeth dip an orangewood stick in clear lemon juice and rub it all over the teeth and close up to the gums four or five times a week. Once or twice a day rub the gums with glycerin.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Albert A. Thomas of Saugerties has been proved and admitted to probate in surrogate's court. The value of the estate is $100 real and over $5,000 personal property. B. L. Davis attorney. The will is dated November 23, 1912, and witnessed by Charles Davis and B. L. Davis and directs that after all just debts are paid that the 18 shares of capital stock of the National Park Bank of New York city be paid to his son, Albert E. Thomas, of Flushing, L. I. By the terms of the will $2,000 is left in trust to his wife, Anna V. G. Thomas, the income to be paid to his sister, Harriet E. Lucas, of Fall River, Mass., during her lifetime in monthly installments as far as possible and at her death the principal of the trust fund is left to his wife, Anna V. G. Thomas. All the remainder of the estate is also left to his wife who is appointed trustee of the trust fund created and also executrix of the estate.

The will of Jane Osterhoudt of the town of Rochester was proved and admited to probate. The value of the estate is $500 and is left to John C. Osterhoudt. V. B. Van Wagonen attorney.

The will of Ezra Carnright of Saugerties was also proved and admitted to probate. The value of the estate does not exceed $3,000 real and $1,000 personal property. The contents of the will have been heretofore published. B. L. Davis attorney.

In the estate of Orlando N. Perry of the town of Olive a judicial settlement was had of the acrounts of the executor and a decree granted. Maurice Eltinge attorney and Daniel B Deyo appointed special guardian.

Warrants For Dog Owners.

The police give notice that action is about to be taken against dog owners who are delinquent in paying the dog license fees. This week the police will begin to scour the city to cause the arrest of everyone harboring a dog who has failed to take out a license. The number of licenses issued, while large, is not what it ought to be compared with former years. In case delinquents fail to show up warrants will be asked from the recorder.

Lyons' Chief Industry.

The ancient city of Lyons, the third city in France, with a population of 500,000, vies with Milan in importance in the world's silk industry. No fewer than 40,000 people—men, women and children—are employed in the factories.

FAMILY FOOD.

Crisp, Toothsome, and Requires No Cooking.

A little boy down in N. C. asked his mother to write an account of how Grape-Nuts food had helped their family.

She says Grape-Nuts was first brought to her attention where she visited.

"While I was there I used the food regularly. I gained weight and felt so well that when I returned home I began using Grape-Nuts in the family regularly.

"My little 18-months-old baby shortly after being weaned was very ill while teething. She was sick nine weeks and we tried everything. She became so emaciated that it was painful to handle her and we thought we were going to lose her. One day a happy thought urged me to try Grape-Nuts soaked in a little warm milk.

"Well, it worked like a charm and she began taking it regularly and improvement set in at once. She grew well and round and fat as fast as possible on Grape-Nuts.

"Sometime ago several of the family were stricken with La Grippe at the same time, and during the worst stages they could not relish anything in the shape of food but Grape-Nuts and oranges, everything else was nauseating.

"We all appreciate what your famous food has done for our family."

GREATEST SLOW BALL

Wise Men of Baseball Never Agreed on Old Question.

Hard Hitters Watched for Clark Griffith's Teaser, but Never Seemed Ready for It—Peculiarities of Other Men.

A baseball fan has asked, to decide an argument, for the name of the pitcher who, in all baseball history, had the greatest slow ball.

That question has been put to the wise men of baseball many times, and they have never agreed. Old Hoss Radbourne, Clark Griffith, Hank O'Day, Virgil Garvin, Christy Mathewson, Otis Crandall, Russ Ford, Fred Falkenberg and Eddie Summers have been named.

Summers, with Detroit in 1907, and part of 1908, had a wonderful slow ball. It was his "knuckler." After a time gripping the ball tore his finger nails to the roots, and he lost the grip that made him a winner.

There are four good present-day slow-ball hurlers—Russ Ford, with his "soap-bubble" ball; Falkenberg, with his "reverse emery;" Mathewson, with his "fadeaway," and Crandall, with his "snake curve."

Crandall went to the majors at an age when most pitchers are nearly all in and his arm was none too strong. He was a wonder for a few innings, and McGraw used him to finish games for faltering fast-ball pitchers.

Batters say Crandall's slow ball floats up as big as a balloon, but when hit won't go anywhere. The trouble is, watchful batters can tell when the ball is coming, for Crandall has to

Ford mixes his slow ball with speed and the "spitter."

Falkenberg says he copied his slow one from Virgil Garvin when both were with Pittsburgh. Falky grips the ball far back in the palm of his hand, holding it between the butt of his thumb and the palm and releasing the pill without friction, so it hardly revolves as it sails to the plate.

Matty's fadeaway breaks in on top of the bats of right-hand batters so even if they hit it they cannot send it far.

Batters always watched for Clark Griffith's slow one, but they never seemed ready for it. Griff had an uncanny knack of pitching just what the batter did not want.

Feds Sure of Compton.

The officials of the St. Louis Federal league club are quoted as saying that despite Pete Compton's sale to the Boston Braves he will be with the Sloufeds next year. They apparently are quite confident that the reserve clause in the contract he signed with Kansas City and which is transferred to Boston can be broken, but that has yet to be proved.

QUERY OF AN IDAHO MAN

A sports writer took a friend from Idaho out to the game at the Polo Grounds.

"That," said the sports writer, pointing to the Detroit outfield, "is the greatest outfield in baseball."

Veach muffed a fly. Cobb made a weak throw trying to cut off a run. Crawford misjudged a single, making it a triple.

"You'll see some great base-running today," the sports writer said later. "Cobb and Maisel in the same game. Great stuff. Both clubs are good on the sacks."

A little later the Yank base runners threw the game away by bonehead base-running.

The game over, the man from Idaho turned to the baseball writer and said:

"Do you think you'll like writing baseball, when you get accustomed to it?"

PRESIDENT WILSON PITCHING OUT BALL

WILSON FORGETS CARE OF STATE AT BALL GAME.

Washington, Sept. 11.—President Wilson opened a game of amateur baseball the other day, and many members of his cabinet were there to see him pitch the ball into the diamond. The game was arranged between employes of the local office of the Southern Railway Company and the St. Theresa Church team to raise funds for entertaining the G. A. R. veterans during their encampment here at the end of the month. The president sat through the entire game, and in spite of the intense heat, looked cool and comfortable in a blue coat and white trousers.

Economy Hints

THE housewife makes a great moan because she has so many interruptions from tradesmen, so many calls from delivery boys and that her day is one long reception line to the grocer, the iceman, the butcher, the baker, the vegetable boy, etc. But viewing this reception line from the other end of the glasses, how about the time and trips the housewife wastes for each of these who bring her supplies? Is the delivery boy's time not worth something? Does it make no difference to the iceman if he has to stop the wagon, go round the entry and up the eight back steps for nothing?

Dealers in various lines have figured out the daily cost for their delivery service. Every call, every knock at the back door, has a definite cash value. The dealer ostensibly pays it, but ultimately it is the housewife consumer who pays it in higher prices. The more unnecessary delivery service the more the running expense of the dealer and hence less profit which he must make up somewhere else.

It is truly only the inefficient housewife who cannot master the daily tradesman situation. Phone calls demanding four or five deliveries a day indicate the sloppiest of wasteful management. Even with such itinerants as vegetable peddlers a definite understanding can be made as to the two or three special days on which they are to call. The writer lived for the winter months in a somewhat fashionable suburb. Every day at about 8:30 a. m. an order boy called from each butcher, grocer, fish and vegetable store. What a waste of good shoe leather, because certainly if we need a box of cornstarch and a bottle of olives tomorrow we can perfectly well order them today. Or if we are living in any way removed from barbarians who know not where they are going to rush out and catch their next meal we can and must plan meals ahead.

But perhaps it is a poor iceman for whom our pity surges at this season. We hesitate to think that any woman looks with envy on the economic independence of the average iceman. Starting on his rounds at 3 a. m., alternately driving a clumsy wagon and handling and carrying hundreds of pounds of frozen water until late at night, sometimes as late as 10 o'clock on summer Saturday nights, cannot the housewife assist in alleviating his lot?

How many times we permit the iceman to come all the way around only to tell him as we take his time to look while he is there that we do not need any ice today. The card system is gaining foothold, but it should be more universally and strictly adhered to. If we need ice let us put out the card, but do not let us waste the iceman's time and strength [illegible] calls at our back door.

Hot Weather Comfort.

The pores should be left as wide open as possible if you do not wish to suffer excessively from the heat. This does not mean that you should never try to stop perspiration, because if your glands exercise too rapidly you will have to take some means of reducing your condition to a normal one.

Perspiration should not be allowed to remain on the body any longer than necessary, as it is not only unpleasant, but unhealthy. During warm weather bathing can scarcely be too frequent. Tepid baths are best of all during the hot weather, for hot baths are much too heating, and cold baths stimulate the circulation to such a degree that the after effects are positively glowing.

To regulate the flow of perspiration an astringent in the bath is less harmful than applying it directly to the skin. Alcohol is, of course, cooling and refreshing, but it is very apt to produce tiny wrinkles because of its drying effect. Toilet waters are less inclined to do so, but if the skin shows any indications of dryness after using one a good cold cream must be rubbed in at once to restore the natural grease which the toilet water has absorbed.

Never apply powder till the skin is dry. Powder and moisture paste up skin pores which should be kept open in order to excrete perfectly.

How to Use the Succulent Onion as Medicine.

Onions supply a complete cure in themselves for cold [illegible] a wonderful remedy in cases of insomnia. A [illegible] cure breakfast includes a poached egg on toast, three tablespoonfuls of fried onions and a cup of coffee. Lots [illegible] of sandwiches made of brown bread, buttered and filled with fine chopped raw onions seasoned with salt and pepper, make the second meal of the day. For the supper [illegible] can be fried for breakfast and eaten with a chop and a baked potato. The efficacy of onions is well known to the singers of Italy and Spain, who eat them every day to improve the quality of their voices and keep them smooth. Onion plasters are prescribed to break up hard coughs. They are made of fried onion placed between two slices of muslin. The plaster is kept quite hot until the patient is snugly in bed when it is placed on the chest to stay overnight. Onion soup is claimed by some to be unequaled as a cure for a bad cold in the chest.

PROFESSOR EUGENE DE FOREST.

WOMAN MASQUERADED AS MAN—TWICE MARRIED—ONCE AS HUSBAND—ONCE AS WIFE.

Professor "Eugene" de Forest.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 13.—After posing as a man for twenty-five years, Professor "Eugene" de Forest, is now under arrest on a charge of masquerading. Professor de Forest was a well known teacher of dramatic art with offices in one of the largest business buildings here. The woman, after her arrest, confessed and told a story of two marriages, in one of which she occupied the role of wife and in the other, the role of husband. At the time of her arrest she was engaged to be married to one of Los Angeles's most prominent matrons.

Professor de Forest is of heavy build, and quite masculine in appearance.

AMBASSADOR & MME. DUMBA.

AMBASSADOR, WHOSE RECALL IS ASKED, AND HIS BEAUTIFUL WIFE.

This is the latest picture of Dr. Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States, and his beautiful wife, who has gained much popularity in Washington social circles because of her great charm and beauty.

WHAT A MAN READS.

It Is a Big Factor In Determining His Course of Life.

A certain low form of aquatic animal life anchors itself to a rock and feeds on whatever the current brings. The average man feeds his mind in much the same way. He falls into line for current amusements. He reads only current literature. He listens to what happens to go by. He makes but little systematic attempt to shut out the unfit or to put himself in line for the fit.

The result is a defective grade of human life that rarely elevates society and often degrades it. If a man would make the most of himself, and that is manifestly the supreme purpose for which he was put into the world, it is worth his while to do his daily work where unclean things, mental and physical, are not made common.

It makes a good deal of difference in the worth of the man today as to whether his reading last night was "Hamlet" and "Isaiah" or "The Other Man's Wife," whether he went to the art institute or the burlesque show. An ancient teacher of well balanced mind gave this direction to his disciples as to the topics to be selected for deliberate thought:

"Finally, my brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

To think on these things one must see and hear these things. To see and hear these things one must make an effort to do so.—Minneapolis Journal.

Sunlight and Vegetation.

The early rays of the sun exercise a more powerful effect in promoting rapid vegetation than the sun's light during the later hours of the day. The active little chlorophyll grains work faster and better in elaborating food for the plant under the action of the blue and yellow rays of the early morning than under the later violet and blue rays. Practical gardeners should make use of this fact by growing early produce as far as possible in a position where the plants will get the full benefit of the morning sun.—London Mail.

Siberia.

Siberia comprises 5,400,000 square miles, divided into the following regions: Western Siberia, comprising the governments of Tobolsk and Tomsk and the territories of Semipalatinsk, Akmolinsk and Semiryechshensk; eastern Siberia, the governments of Irkutsk and Yeniseisk and the territories of Transbaikal, Amur, Yakutsk, the littoral and one-half of the island of Sakhalin.

ALLIED FINANCIERS DISCUSSING HUGE WAR LOAN WITH MORGAN.

The layout, in which the identification captions are already inserted shows the six allied financiers and J. P. Morgan, as they looked photographed aboard the S. S. Lapland, upon their arrival in New York Friday.

Who the financiers are, who are said to be trying to float a half billion dollar war loan in this country for the allies:

Baron Reading—Lord chief justice of England, formerly Sir Rufus Isaacs, elevated to the peerage in 1914.

Sir Henry Babbington Smith, president of the National Bank of Turkey.
Sir Edward Hopkinson Holden, managing director of the London City and Midland Bank.
Basil B. Hackett, of the British Treasury.
Octave Homberg, of the French Foreign Office.
Ernest Mallett, regent of the Bank of France.

ADVERTISEMENT WRITING.

ADVERTISEMENTS, Booklets, Circulars, etc., as I prepare them, are the yeast that raises your sales. They are well worked together with selling phrases that "stick," seasoned with sugar-coated words of persuasion, and contain the salt that shortens time and emphasizes success. Don't get the idea that everything that talks about your store is advertising, and remember that advertising which brings results is not a gallop of imagination driven by an amateur writer or an "intelligent" clerk. Let me help you. George M. Zeilmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Delta Alpha Society will resume regular monthly meetings tonight at the home of Miss Ethel Morey, 63 Liberty street.

There was a large attendance at the Twaalfskill Club on Saturday afternoon, where Mrs. A. V. V. Kenyon, Mrs. Ogden Winne and Mrs. William Lawton, assisted by Mrs. Everett Fowler, Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler and Miss Florence Tappen, were the hostesses. The club house was handsomely decorated with autumn leaves.

Freer-Evans.

Miss Kathryn E. Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Evans of Newburgh, and Lester Hugo Freer of New Paltz were married on Wednesday by the Rev. Robert Smith of the Congregational Church of Poughkeepsie. After an automobile trip through the northern part of the state Mr. and Mrs. Freer will make their home in Newburgh.

Mulhare-Carroll.

Miss Anna Carroll, daughter of Mrs. Annie Carroll, of No. 440 Washington avenue, and Andrew Mulhare of Wilmington, Delaware, formerly of this city, were united in marriage on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. Joseph's Church by the Rev. John H. Briody, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary A. Carroll, and the best man was Thomas Fallon of New York city. The bride was beautifuly attired in a gown of white embroidered net over white satin and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was gowned in pink satin and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Mulhare received a large number of beautiful and costly gifts. They left Sunday evening on their honeymoon for Washington, D. C., and points of interest in the south. Upon their return they will reside in Wilmington, Delaware. The bride was formerly employed as stenographer in the office of the Nitro Powder Company and she and her husband have a host of friends who wish them a long and prosperous married life.

Minard-Heaton.

Wednesday, September 8, at high noon a hundred guests were present at a charming out door wedding in Clintondale, when Miss Edith Hull Heaton, daughter of the late Reuben and Sarah Heaton, became the bride of Leander Terwilliger Minard of Plattekill. As the recent death of Mr. McCoy, father of the bride's sister-in-law, rendered a home wedding impossible, the marriage was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Jenkins.

The decorations made a most attractive setting for the bridal party. Chains and posts of golden rod formed a pathway leading obliquely from the porch to the arch of flat cedar, backed artistically by a spreading apple tree. A unique feature was the rug of golden rod upon which the bride and groom stood to receive congratulations. The ushers, four in number, with boutonnieres of white carnations and wearing the conventional black, headed the procession. They were Harold Briggs, William Terwilliger, Elton Mosher and Clarence Thorne. Following them came the best man, Clayton Jenkins, and the groom, also dressed in the conventional garb. The flower girls, the Misses Alice and Dorothy Heaton, nieces of the bride, came next, dressed in white with yellow ribbons and carrying gilt baskets of white carnations. The bridesmaids, the Misses Madaline Sutton and Lois Reynolds followed the flower girls up the pathway. They wore dresses of pale yellow crepe de chine with lace boleros and carried flat bouquets of golden rod. Harold Elting, nephew of the bride, dressed in a smart white suit, came just behind with a large white lily containing the ring. The maid of honor was Miss Marian Schoonmaker of New Hurley. Miss Schoonmaker wore yellow chiffon taffeta and carried pale pink roses. Last of all came the bride on the arm of her brother, James H. Heaton, who gave her away. The bride was charming in a lovely creation of white crepe de chine, crepe chiffon and pearl trimming, made en train. The cap of the veil was trimmed with orange blossoms and pearl trimming and both train and veil were caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The Rev. J. D. Piper officiated. The ring ceremony was used. Miss Mary Minard of Plattekill, sister of the groom, played the wedding march. Following the congratulations, a delicious luncheon was served. The bride and groom left amid a shower of confetti. The bride wore a seal brown suit, brown velvet hat and bronze shoes. The wedding trip is to be spent motoring, with Lake George as headquarters, after which Mr. and Mrs. Minard will take up their residence in Clintondale. A quantity of handsome and expensive presents were received, among which were hand pointed china, silver, cut glass, linen, wood, brass and checks. Guests from out of town included Mr. and Mrs. John Minard, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eltinge, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Minard, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Williamson, Mr. and Mrs Egbert Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. William Roosa, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Thorne, Miss Elizabeth Brown and Miss Augusta Gerow.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Myron Silkworth is having his house on Clifton avenue handsomely painted and decorated. The work is being done by Messrs. Herb and Brown.

The yacht Elihu Bunker will not make its regular trips to Poughkeepsie on Wednesday as it will take the Kingston Shriners' Association to the annual clambake in that city.

A regular monthly meeting of the Queen Esther Society of St. James's M. E. Church will be held at 7:30 this evening in the church parlors. As this is the first fall meeting a large attendance is requested.

An important meeting of the Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Miss Kerr, No. 38 Abeel street. All collectors should bring in their money at this time.

LOCAL BASEBALL DOINGS.

Games Played or to be Played by the Home Teams.

On Sunday the Wilbur Feds defeated the Port Ewen team at the latter's grounds by the score of 11 to 2. Stoudt and Bush were in the points for the Feds and played an excellent game, being ably supported by the rest of the team. Carter contributed to the scoring by smashing out a fine home run. Next Sunday, September 19, at Wilbur, the Feds will again cross bats with the All Wilbur team. These two teams are about evenly matched as they have played two twelve inning games, one of which ended in a tie, 2-2.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, Sept. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Irving Riseley of Woodstock have gone for a two weeks' trip west, to Dansville, Michigan, where they expect to visit relatives and friends. They stopped at Albany Sunday and continued their journey the following day. A host of their friends wish them both a pleasant time and a safe return home much benefited by their long trip.

Whipped His Wife.

An Italian woman with three children appeared at the city hall to complain to the police that her husband had deserted her and her family. She claims he whipped her unmercifully and then left town. A warrant was issued for his arrest and he will probably be brought before Recorder Lang on Tuesday morning.

To Build Ruppert Dock.

Alexander Sturgeon, who has been repairing docks in this vicinity, left this morning for Staatsburg with his pile driver where he will build a large dock for the Ruppert estate at that place.

A Family Trait.

"Oh, mother!" exclaimed tender hearted little Frances, coming in from school with tears in her eyes. "There was the pittifullest little orphan there today! He had holes in his stockings an' all his clo'es, an' his shoes weren't alike an' he hadn't any hat. It made me cry to look at him; he was the orphanest little boy I ever saw. Oh, I just knew that poor child's father an' mother's both orphans, too!"—Pittsburgh Press.

Nails First Forged by Hand.

Nails, an indispensable article for everyday use in "a thousand and one" ways, are not, as many of us may suppose, of very ancient origin. Naturally there has always been a substitute, but it has only been since 1810 that machinery has been employed to any extent in the manufacture of nails. Previous to that time they were made by hand by forging on an anvil, and great numbers of men were employed in the industry.

Mosquito's Advantage.

"But," said the young mosquito, "is not man much stronger than we?" "He is," replied the fond parent, "but we may venture to attack him on account of our superior mobility."—Puck.

This is certainly a great opportunity for Kingston—one which should be availed of to the utmost capacity of the Auditorium.

Raymond is the liveliest of "live wires", his talks are entertaining, instructive and filled with business inspiration.

We have shown our confidence in Mr. Raymond, and our enthusiasm in having Kingston abreast of the times by taking 75 tickets

All of the VanWagenen organization will be there, including management, buyers, office people, salespeople—in fact everybody.

There is not a business house, a Bank or an Office, in Kingston, that should not see to it that all connected therewith shall hear Raymond's talk.

If Kingston could hear Raymond once a month it would surely put snap and ginger into all of us, increasing our efficiency and broadening our outlook.

Walden Loses Season's Record.

Mohonk Lake, Sept. 23.—Mohonk played fast ball Saturday against the Walden Independent Club which barely escaped a shut-out by scoring two runs in the ninth. Owl outpitched Fraser, besides scoring Mohonk's first run on a homer to deep left. The game abounded in features including three fast double plays by Mohonk, brilliant fielding by Hall and Fernald. Crownshaw's catch of Turner's long fly and V. Clearwater's hitting and base stealing.

The score:

Mohonk	AB.	R.	H.	A.	E.
Clearwater, 2b	5	1	4	2	0
Turner, 3b	5	1	1	1	0
Churchill, ss	4	2	2	3	2

HAMS OF WESTPHALIA.

Processes by Which They Are Cured and Flavored.

The famous Westphalian hams, which are eaten without cooking, are cured by an elaborate process that has been worked out patiently and skillfully by generations of expert workmen. A writer in the New York Sun thus describes the process:

After being rubbed thoroughly with a solution in which there are 100 pounds of salt to one pound of saltpeter, the hams are placed on cement floors, or in vats, and thickly strewn with salt. They lie under salt for two weeks and then pass to a vat that contains a 22 per cent solution of brine. They remain in that solution for eighteen days. Every day they are shifted in the vat; the hams on the bottom are brought to the top, and vice versa.

At the end of the eighteen days the hams are packed, one upon another, in a cool, dry cellar, where they remain for four weeks, in order to ripen—that is, to take on color and become tender. Then the salt is washed off with a stiff brush dipped in lukewarm water, and the hams are put to soak for twelve hours in fresh water. After that they are ready for the smokehouse.

The smokehouses are two or three stories high, with holes bored in the flooring. The fires are kindled on the ground floor, and the meat is hung on the second and third floors. The fires are made entirely of beech wood, but the workmen constantly throw juniper berries and juniper twigs on the embers. The fire burns brightly. It is checked with beech wood sawdust whenever it burns too briskly.

The smoking continues for about eight days. Under the ancient curing methods, however, the hams were often kept in the smoke rooms for six weeks, and it is by this latter method that the best hams are still made by the country folk of Westphalia.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Sept 13 —George Whitted may give Josh Devore a battle for the title of "The Luckiest Man in Baseball"

Whitted was with the Cardinals up to the middle of the 1914 season. And then he was traded to the Braves Was George glad? George was not —George was goth darned mad, that's what he was

At the time the deal was put through the Cards seemed to have a nice chance for the pennant —and the consequent share in the world series spoils The Braves then were trying to push the bottom out of the National League.

Well George went to the Braves because he was forced to go—and the Braves won the pennant and the world series Whitted got something like $2,500 as his share of the boot.

In the springtime of this year the Braves traded Whitted to the Phillies—and gosh, now George did howl He didn't want to quit a club that looked like a repeater in the world's seriesing business to play with a joke outfit such as the Phillies But in the end, George went

And now there's a beautiful chance for George, as a member of these same joke Phillies' to share in the cutting of another world series melon

Ty Cobb, after hitting around 400 all season, slumped about 25 points That still left him an average of 37 —an average far beyond that of any other clouter in the game Yet the Detroit fans are 'panning' him for "weak hitting" Can you beat it?

Why Somers Sold Jackson.

Baseballistically speaking, the fans are of the opinion that it was suicide for Charley Somers to sell Joe Jackson The southern slugger was about the only drawing card on the club and his absence made the club look but little more than a minor league outfit.

But there probably was method in Somers's seeming madness He got $25,000 in regular money for Jackson Had he kept him, Jackson, the slugging outfielder, might have jumped to the Feds, with whom he was dickering, at the time of the sale, and Somers would have been out both Jackson and the $25,000.

Trick Plays Must Go.

Prexy Tener has announced that the moss-covered trick plays will be barred from the National League after this season Tener intends putting through a series of rules during the winter that will prevent Miller Huggins and other tricksters from winning ball games by causing the opposition to pull a "boner."

One of the things that influenced the trickeries was Huggins's little stunt, played on Appleton, the Dodger pitcher The Cards had two men on bases Huggins was on the coaching line for his team and Appleton was pitching

Just as Appleton was about to wind up for a pitch, Huggins yelled

"Hey, throw that ball here, throw it here, I say"

Appleton looked at Huggins, figured that Huggins thought he was using an imperfect ball or had been sandpapering it and then threw it toward Huggins. The Card leader dodged the throw the ball went to the grandstand and before it was recovered the Cardinal runners had scored—and the Cards won the game

How Plants Die.

That plants die like animals we all know, but we do not know the exact moment when they die. For hours a dead plant seems alive There is no twitch, no death spasm A scientist has, however, succeeded not only in noting the precise moment when a plant gives up its life, but in recording its death spasm The plant is heated very gradually so as to avoid all excitation This is done by placing the plant in a water bath the temperature of which is continuously raised by the application of a gas or spirit flame At 60 degrees C a spasmodic extraction takes place. All attempts to obtain response after this fail, even though the plant is cooled down to its normal temperature. This death temperature of 60 degrees is constant for all plants.

Eyes of a Bird.

Fishes and birds have an advantage over human beings in their ability to see on both sides of them Their eyes are set not for looking straight ahead but for looking out on each side That is because they balance their bodies to right or to left, while we balance forward and backward A bird can watch the tips of both wings at once The pilot of an aeroplane has to turn his head from side to side to see his wing tips.

QUESTIONS ASKED NEW ORGANIZATION

To The Editor of The Kingston Daily Freeman.—

My Dear Sir:—

Permit me to express for several others and myself, thanks for the full publication of the constitution and by-laws of the newly organized Bureau of Social Service, as it appeared in the Saturday evening issue of The Freeman.

Being actively connected with one of the old, established and apparently beneficial philanthropies of our city, I am, like many another, deeply interested in this new project and sincerely hope that it will actually fill a long felt want

The name, "Bureau of Social Service" has the right sound if it is intended to designate an organization which will collect, tabulate and simplify existing philanthropic data now obtainable, investigate and assign to the right working bodies, new cases that may arise in the community.

In your opening paragraph, you speak of this organization as "exercising the functions of an associated charities" Will it do so? For, so far, not one of our local established charities, the Alms Commission, the Industrial Home, the Agency for Dependent and Defective Children, Sunshine Society, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Benevolent Independent Order of Elks, the Daughters of Isabella, many other clubs, the churches, etc., have been asked whether they will be willing to be so "associated," nor has it been explained in what way and according to what idea they will be associated.

Both previous meetings of the new body were held on evenings when it was impossible for representatives of all the above named organizations to be present. At the first meeting, several such representatives as were present were not called upon to express any thought on this most important subject. The second meeting had to do only with the constitution and by-laws, which supposedly would be acted upon only by the members of the bureau or its board of directors. The next meeting, to be held this evening, will be for the board of directors only. Therefore there are questions which many of our citizens would like to ask of the directors at that meeting.

Will the new organization devote itself first and foremost to the accumulation of important data relative to philanthropic needs of every sort, from all sources in the city, be ready to furnish such data to the organizations in order that there will be no future duplication of action in any one case? Or will the Bureau of Social service divide its efforts between work of this sort and the actual performance of relief work? In what way will it "promote systematic co-operation of all charitable agencies?" Does it expect to be supported financially by these "charitable agencies," and to what extent? Does it propose to exercise authority over their expenditure of money or their mode of working?

The above mentioned "associated charities" would like to know just what is implied in the clause in Article VIII of the Constitution, reading, the secretary "shall also act as executive of the association and shall perform such duties as may be [illegible] by the board of directors to further the objects of the association?" Is the idea that the board of directors will appoint a secretary who will take charge of all the clerical work necessary to the simplifying of charitable efforts in the city and do such investigating and relief work as will be possible in addition to the former difficult and arduous task, or do the directors expect their secretary to act as personal supervisor of all charitable effort in the community, directing the operations of already existing philanthropic bodies and individuals? Will the money raised for the salary of such a secretary—according to Article VIII, presenting the unusual condition of an employe in the capacity of an executive—sufficiently relieve the financial strain both on the community and charitable organizations to be of proportionate benefit to all?

There is not a philanthropic organization or individual in Kingston who would not hail with delight a "clearing house" for all such work; an efficient, accurate, ready-at-hand clearing house, to immeasurably increase the efficiency of such work and decrease the cost of its maintenance. But it is most desirable to know positively that just this sort of aid will be given, rather than the formation of another philanthropic society with more salary to be paid When these questions are answered the "associated charities" will know whether to offer, or if invited to accept an invitation to co-operate in the new plan. It would seem that this new movement possessed far too great potentialities to be entered into without the fullest knowledge of just what it will do and how it will do it.

Thanking you for the courtesy of your columns, I am

Yours respectfully

AN ACTIVE WORKER.

Self Sacrifice.

No man has ever sacrificed himself in the common meaning of that phrase, which is self sacrifice for another alone. Men make daily sacrifice for others, but it is for their own sake first They must content their own spirit first. A man must feel better for doing a duty than he would for shirking it.

Take the case of the Berkeley Castle, a British troopship crowded with soldiers and their wives and children. There was room in the boats for the women and children only. The colonel lined up his regiment on the deck and said, "It is our duty to die that they may be saved" There was no murmur, no protest. The boats carried away the women and children. When the death moment was come the colonel and his officers took their several posts, the men stood at "present," and so, as on dress parade, with their flag flying and the drums beating, they went down, a sacrifice to duty for duty's sake. They were soldiers with a soldier's pride—a soldier's self respect. They had to content a soldier's spirit.—Mark Twain.
